Let's Have a Party Scenario Cards 4th – 8th Grade – FCS

It is 11:00 pm on a Friday night and Mary is hosting a slumber party with four friends. Mary's dad has to go to work Saturday morning at 6:00 am. Mary and her friends love to talk, listen to music and dance. Mary's favorite song comes on the radio. She cranks up the volume to the max and yell's, "let's dance."	John is at a party at his friend's house. John is the first person in line for the pizza and cookies. John is really hungry he picks up four slices of cheese pizza and six chocolate chip cookies. John knows there are five other people to eat but surely nobody is as hungry he is.
Susie is having a pool party for her friends. After a long fun day of swimming, the group decides it is time to shower and get ready for dinner at the local pizza shop. Betty is the first to shower and decides a 30 minute shower is just what she needs after swimming all day. The others wait and grow impatient as Betty enjoys her shower and everyone gets hungry.	Sam and a new friend from school named Joe get to talking at a basketball game. Together the two decide it would be fun to have Joe come over and spend the night so that Sam can show him his new video game. Together the two boys rush up to Sam's mom and ask if Joe can come home from the ball game with him.
Linda spends the weekend at Donna's home. While there, Donna's mother took the girls to a movie, out for dinner and cooked a special Sunday afternoon lunch which included Linda's favorite food, lasagna. On that following Monday, Linda wrote a short thank-you note to Donna and her family. She thanked them for the taking her to the movie and the special dinner. Donna immediately put the thank-you note in the mail.	Brittany wanted to have a back to school party for her classmates. With the help of her parents, she planned the party, including snacks, games and prizes. The party was a success and everyone had a great time. The only problem was the mess left after the party. Brittany decided she was too tired and someone else could clean-up.
Billy and Steve are invited over to Andrew's house. While there, Billy decides he is thirsty. Billy helps himself to a soft drink and while in the refrigerator decides to try a slice of the chocolate cake that he happens to notice on the bottom shelf—the cake that Andrew's mother is planning to deliver to the neighbor who is recovering from surgery.	Missy is planning her 13th birthday party. After talking with her parents, she mails 6 invitations to friends from school. On her invitations she includes the following information: date, time, what kind of party, directions to her home, her parents' cell phone number, an RSVP date, and a special note to not bring a gift but please bring a sleeping bag for a back yard camp out.

Carolyn is visiting a friend and has been invited to a special family birthday dinner. Carolyn has a new cell phone and loves having unlimited texting. She decides she can hold the phone under the table and continue to text to Andrea and Lucy who are shopping at the mall and finding some really great deals.

Jack is a member of the City Grove Junior High Student Council. He is seated at the table for the monthly meeting. He is expecting a call from Jordan about going to movies on Friday night. Jack lays his phone on the table and keeps the ringer on loud so he can answer it the second he gets the call.
